Monarch Bioimplants will use the funds to bring to market its revolutionary NeuroShield™, an FDA-cleared biosynthetic peripheral nerve regeneration technology designed from naturally occurring chitosan. NeuroShield™ has already been introduced in the Middle East and Africa with signed distribution agreements in Israel and South Africa. The funds will expand distribution to the U.S., Europe, Australia, and Chinese markets.

Nerve injuries can lead to long term effects including numbness, loss of movement, and impotence. The chitosan is fully absorbed by the surrounding tissue with no side effects.

"We at Monarch are extremely excited with this new investment as GEM is providing the financial means that we need to bring our outstanding technology to every patient," says Dr. Rivelino Montenegro, CEO of Monarch Bioimplants. "Nerve damage causes physical and emotional pain for patients and relatives. GEM's investment provides a solid foundation for paving the way for our technology to become standard of care and improve lives."

Fast Track Ventures is the primary investor in Monarch Bioimplants. The agreement with GEM supports the investment company's goal of bringing Monarch Bioimplants into successful public listing and subsequent worldwide distribution.
