The recent round of funding brings the total funding commitment to $54 Million at the most recent valuation of $225 Million. The round continues the fundraising momentum with previous investor rounds in 2020.

Just as mass-market adoption of automobiles took a couple of decades after the first cars rolled off the factory floor, adoption of new tech trends often takes a little time before the culture and economy are ready for it. But sometimes the stars do align, and the right technology arrives at a time when the market is ready for change.

inGen Dynamics Founder / CEO and sci-fi aficionado Arshad Hisham is hoping to make that next leap, this time in the world of Robotics and AI. As Hisham puts it, 'One of the things that I wanted to do from an early age, being a big fan of Asimov, Battlestar Galactica, and other prominent science fiction, is to bring some of the science fiction to reality.'
